ABSTRACT

The 40 tests cited in this bibliography are for elementary through adult level, including measures of pictorial creativity, achievement in design, interest and attitudes, knowledge, art education, art history, and aesthetic judgment. This document is one in a series of topical bibliographies from the Test Collection (TC) at the Educational Testing Service (ETS) containing descriptions of more than 18,000 tests and other measurement devices prepared by commercial publishers, teachers, educational institutions, professional associations, departments of education, counselors, etc. Each description contains the following basic information: TC Accession Number (a six-digit identification number assigned by the Test Collection); the title of the instrument; personal or institutional author; year of publication or copyright; availability source; grade level for which test is suitable; age level for which test is suitable; and abstract. Other information, which is provided when known, includes subtests, number of test items, and time required to complete the test. Information on accessing the Test Collection via Internet concludes the document. (CRW)

INTRODUCTION

Scope of Bibliography

Contains tests for elementary school through adult level, including measures of pictorial creativity, achievement in design, interest and attitudes, knowledge, art education, art history, and aesthetic judgment.

Availability

Copies of the tests described on the following pages must be obtained directly from the publisher, as stated in the AV AVAILABILITY section of each test citation. Generally, the Test Collection does not have distribution rights for its holdings. However, in special instances, the Test Collection has been granted permission from individual authors to distribute their tests, which are primarily research instruments. The AV AVAILABILITY information for these instruments will be Tests in microfiche, Test Collection, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, NJ 08541.

Guide to Citation Elements

The following is a guide to the various elements which may be present in a test citation:

AN - Six-digit identification number assigned by the Test Collection

TI - Name of the instrument

DT - Components within the overall test which assess particular skills or factors

AU - Personal or institutional author

YR - Year test was published or copyrighted

AV - Test publisher or distributor; the organization which sells or distributes the instrument

AB ABSTRACT: Designed to find careers that match a person's interests. Helps users explore their interests as they relate to occupations. An Interest Inventory helps determine the kinds of work-related activities the user would most enjoy doing. An Interpretation Guide shows users how to understand the answers that they have written in their Interest Inventory. Form S is for students in grades seven through ten with eighth grade or lower reading ability, minimal occupational awareness, and minimal motivation. Form S directs users to the Chronicle Occupational Library to develop one or more occupational profiles on their career options.

AB ABSTRACT: Designed to find careers that match a person's interests. Helps users explore their interests as they relate to occupations. Users survey a cross-section of occupations. An Interest Inventory helps determine the kinds of work-related activities a person would most enjoy doing. An Interpretation Guide shows the users how to understand the answers they wrote in their Interest Inventory. Form L is for individuals in high school, in college, or adults with some occupational awareness and sufficient motivation to complete the forms. Form L helps users define their interests, skills, work objectives, and expected amount of education. The user then researches selected career options to see which ones satisfy these criteria.

AB ABSTRACT: Used as a counseling tool for job awareness, exploration and implementation with high school students and adults who are seeking job training and placement. Offers a quick screening and decision-making format for job analysts, high school counselors, job training specialists and others who motivate job seekers into the job market after assessment and counseling. Written as the fifth grade reading level and consists of three parts: job interest assessment; matching of job groups and jobs based on the assessment; and exploring a selected job. The six job groups rated in the assessment phase are based on Holland's six vocational and personality types: conventional work, realistic work, artistic work, social work, enterprising work, and scientific work.

AB ABSTRACT: This test battery is used to determine an individual's eligibility to receive a high school equivalency certificate. It is designed for use by anyone who has not completed a four-year high school education program. There are five subtests. The Writing Skills subtest includes an essay section and items concerning sentence structure, usage, mechanics. Social Studies content includes history, economics, political science, geography and behavioral sciences (anthropology, psychology, sociology). Science covers life sciences and physical sciences. The language section covers popular literature, classical literature and a commentary section on film, art, theater, etc. Mathematics covers arithmetic, algebra, geometry. Information about computer literacy has been integrated into the context of questions in several of the subtest areas. The test items measure skills relevant to adult experiences. Items require understanding of broad concepts and generalizations and measure the general ability to evaluate, synthesize, and draw conclusions. The GED battery is available in French, Spanish, Braille, large print, and on audio cassettes. These tests were originally developed by the Examination Staff of the United States Armed Forces Institute (a committee of civilian educators) as a method of evaluating military personnel who lacked a high school diploma. After the Second World War, the use of the test battery was extended to civilians also. Generally, changes in the examination consist of requiring examinees to use high level thinking skills and problem solving skills rather than merely supplying factual answers. The teacher's manual for the test can be purchased from Contemporary Books, 180 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60601.

AB ABSTRACT: This series of work samples is used in secondary, vocational education and alternative education programs, manpower programs, and correctional programs. The work samples are job simulations for aptitude assessment and career exploration. Test materials include power tools and other equipment such as an audiovisual projection and are purchased from the publisher. An average assessment requires that three to five work samples are given in from six to ten hours. Average work samples take 38 minutes to 4 hours. Used to assist in career exploration, to make recommendations for job placement or further training. Norms are based on industrial quality standards. Time norms are not used. Content validity is described. Many of the samples are useful in vocational rehabilitation.

AB ABSTRACT: This test is a version of the inventory that has been revised and updated to include more professional occupations than the vocational version. It is written at the grade 8 reading level (as opposed to 6th) and focuses on careers requiring four years of college. Like the original version there are six occupational themes: realistic, investigative, artistic, social, enterprising and conventional. Twenty-five basic interest scales are included in these themes. Norms are based on an adult population working in each occupation. Said to meet Title IX guidelines relevant to sex bias. Uses a list of 111 jobs. Scoring is via computer by publisher or through test administration software on disk. Narrative reports and profiles are available. Used for student advising, adults re-entering the workforce and job applicant screening.

AB ABSTRACT: Latest edition of the Strong Vocational Interest Blank. Compares a person's interests with the interests of people happily employed in a wide variety of occupations. It is a measure of interests used chiefly as an aid in making curricular or career decisions. Respondents are scored on 6 general occupational themes, 23 basic interest scales, and 207 occupational scales. The general occupational themes are based on the six general occupational personalities proposed by John L. Holland. The basic interest scales measure the strength and consistency of the respondent's interest in specific areas, such as artistic activities. The occupational scales reflect the degree of similarity between the respondent's interests and those of people in particular occupations. There are also scores on two special scales that measure introversion-extraversion and degree of comfort in an academic environment plus 26 administrative indexes that help identify invalid or unusual profiles.

AB ABSTRACT: A personality-interest inventory composed entirely of occupational titles. Subjects indicate the occupations they like or dislike. The clusters of personal characteristics that the inventory assesses yield information about the subject's interests, interpersonal relationships, values, self concept, coping behaviors, and identifications. Developed originally to assess personality, the VPI is also useful for assessing vocational interests. VPI has four main uses: a brief personality inventory for high school and college students and employed adults; an addition to a battery of personality inventories; an interest inventory, an assessment technique for the investigation of career theory and behavior. In most cases, the VPI should be used with subjects over 14 years old and with at least normal intelligence. It should be used and interpreted only in combination with other psychosocial information such as age, sex, educational level, field of training; and current occupational status. Can also be computer-administered using an Apple II+ or IIe or an IBM-PC.

AB ABSTRACT: Self-administered, self-scored, and self-interpreted vocational counseling tool. Is a vocational interest inventory based on Holland's theory of careers. Developed for two main purposes: to increase the number of people a counselor can serve and to provide vocational counseling to those who need minimum vocational counseling or do not have access to a counselor. Individual completes the assessment booklet and obtains a three-letter occupational code. Code is then used to locate suitable occupations in the booklet, the Occupations Finder. May also be computer-administered using an Apple II+ or IIe or an IBM/PC.

AB ABSTRACT: Instrument used to obtain and analyze information about a person's characteristics and background. Form U was developed primarily to help identify talents which are typically difficult to measure. May also be used in counseling, guidance, and talent teaching. Results of inventory are most effectively used when combined with other information in order to recognize and develop student potential. Use of inventory with students below grade 7 should be based on evidence of satisfactory reading ability (at least fifth grade reading level). No time limit but most should complete inventory in about one hour. Form U has been designed so that responses can be optically scanned and computer scored at the availablity source. This is a research instrument.

AB ABSTRACT: Designed to provide a measure of an individual's academic potential through assessing those cognitive skills related to the learning process. Uses eight subtests, four of which employ item types primarily nonverbal in nature and which are based more upon an understanding of numbers and figures rather than upon vocabulary and reading skills. The other four subtests are more dependent upon verbal skills. The verbal cognitive skills quotient (CSQ) may be used as an estimate of potential in such areas heavily dependent on verbal skills. The nonverbal CSQ provides a measure for predicting achievement in such areas as mathematics, art, and physical sciences. Level K is administered orally for grades K-3 and should be given over two days, one session each day.

ETS TEST COLLECTION VIA INTERNET

The ERIC Clearinghouse on Assessment and Evaluation has mounted on its gopher site a database to help locate tests. This database can be used by accessing the gopher at the address: GOPHER.CUA.EDU The ERIC/ETS Test Collection is located under: Special Resources/ ERIC Clearinghouse on Assessment and Evaluation/ Test Locator/

To search the database, enter keywords from the title or descriptors. For example, if you would like to search for tests on oral language proficiency, you could type in all three words, or oral and proficiency. You may get slightly different results, but you will have information on a lot of tests to look at. If you know the title of the test, the best way to search is to use the main words in the title, not necessarily all of the words in the title. If you are looking for the Wechsler Intelligence Scale for Children-Revised, the most efficent way to search is with the words Wechsler, intelligence, and children.

INTRODUCTION TO THE ETS TEST COLLECTION

The Educational Testing Service (ETS) Test Collection database contains records on over 9,500 tests and research instruments. These records describe the instruments and provide availability information. The Test Collection encompasses virtually all fields from vocational interest inventories for adults to instruments that measure shyness or predict recidivism in released criminal offenders, to assessment of managerial style, as well as education-related achievement and aptitude tests. The test descriptions are indexed with ERIC Thesaurus terms for subject accessibility.

This is a joint project of ETS and ERIC_AE. ETS Library and Reference Services Division prepares the descriptions. ERIC_AE maintains the database and hosts the Search System. ERIC_AE has also begun to put ETS prepared test descriptions into the ERIC Resources in Education database. About 15 descriptions are added each month.

You may download individual and small groups of test descriptions and you may point to this service from any Gopher Site.

WHAT KIND OF TEST ARE DESCRIBED?

The Test Collection database collects a variety of instruments: achievement tests, aptitude tests, personality measures, attitude measures, career/vocational interest measures, occupational tests such as nursing or sales skills inventories. Many research instruments are collected as well as tests from commercial publishers.

WHAT INFORMATION IS AVAILABLE ABOUT THE TESTS?

The title, author, publication date and source appear in the record. An abstract describing the instrument, intended population, and uses accompanies the record. Subject terms give the age and grade level information as well as ERIC Thesaurus terms that describe the test.

DOES THE TEST COLLECTION DATABASE REVIEW THE TESTS?

No, other reference guides such as Mental Measurements Yearbooks,

Tests: A Comprehensive Reference for Assessments in Psychology, Education, and Business, and Test Critiques distributed by Pro-Ed fill that role. You can search the tables of contents for the MMY and Test Critiques through the ERIC_AE Gopher Site.

ARE ALL THE TESTS IN THE DATABASE CURRENTLY IN PRINT?

No, some of the items are out of print. We suggest contacting the publisher for permission to use out-of-print materials. Phone numbers can be located using another menu option on the ERIC_AE Gopher Site.

WHERE CAN I SEE THE ACTUAL TEST INSTRUMENTS?

Availability information is provided in the records. Many colleges and universities have test collections in their libraries. Talk to you local librarian for more information.

WHAT IS TESTS IN MICROFICHE?

Tests in Microfiche is a subcollection of unpublished research instruments that are available for purchase in microfiche from the ETS Test Collection. The collection includes instruments appropriate for diverse populations (infants, learning disabled, adults, etc.) Each set spans a wide range of topics such as job satisfaction and attitudes towards school. More than 800 tests are available.

DOES THE TEST COLLECTION PROVIDE REFERENCE SERVICES?

No, the descriptive information in the database should help answer most questions people may have. And the publisher of the particular test is the most competent source of information. You can, however, route general inquiries to ERIC_AE@CUA.EDU.
